

Six to Sundown

BAND STORY

"Six to Sundown was formed in the spring of 2006 by Matt Gagas, Matt Brescia, Mike Daw, Andrew McGrory, and Jason Turnier. After a thorough period of writing and rehearsing, Six to Sundown began to record their debut album Riot Versailles; chaos contained in beauty. Their first effort, an independent endeavor, has been recorded, produced, mixed, and mastered in their own studio using Protools LE, Roland V-Drums, and a Line 6 Podxt Pro. After almost a year of work, both recording and rehearsing, Riot Versailles was released in May 2007. In an effort to capture the perpetual existential battle prone to the mortal condition, each of the eleven tracks on Riot Versailles wield their own sound and theme aimed at giving the listening a snapshot picture of the complexities of human drama. Over the past year, Six to Sundown, has worked hard playing local bars and clubs in Long Island, Brooklyn, and Manhattan. The band is striving, through the energy of their live shows and constant promotion, to push the popularity of their music while gaining recognition among fans and other bands. In the future the members of Six to Sundown hope to make connections with fans, friends, and bands to gain the following and notoriety necessary to move ahead to bigger and more popular venues, play for an increasingly large crowd, and establish themselves in New York's music scene.
