

Stex Jebba

BAND STORY

"Exploring sound with feelers of the most absorbent senses with no clear destination in mind, Stex Jebba has encountered many elements, demons, tastes and smells along the way. It was only less than two years ago that their independent (but never solitary) paths merged to form their current pilgrimage to sonic hell. For it is believed by the four members of The Jebba that only in the underbellies of our respective worlds can we find the raw energy and potency needed to fuel the ongoing combustion of steady self-indulgent funk. We have not sold our souls to the devil; we have merely allowed him to place a eBay bid on that which we have embraced the loss of in the greater interest of selling out. That's right folks, we are not drudges to the obligation of pleasing your appetite for artistic purity. Our goal is a selfish one, and a true one. Stex Jebba is not your parents' musical quartet. It is not what your friends are listening to on the radio. Hell, you don't even know you like our music until you hear it. In our own personal musical journeys we have had engagements with catalysts of creativity from the realms of rock, funk, hip-hop, metal, punk, pop, jazz, classical, electronic, 80s, cassette tape, record, CD, 8-track, yelling, loving, fucking, breathing, growing, hating, eating, running, sleeping, and of course... drunk. At the risk of sounding insincere, our main focus for shows and as a solid musical entity is the music. But indulging in the pleasures of drink and carnal knowledge is more than a close second. Why hide the force that drives us all? This life is hedonism. This is our medium. So lets all get funkyed up."
