

Young Blee

BAND STORY

"Midnite Walk Riddim", the first album to be released on Cross Seas Entertainment, will be available for digital download from 27 August. The dancehall compilation can be found at all major digital distributors and also be picked up at www.crosseasent.com Hot on the hip-hop heels of Young Blee's "Who Dat Boy?" single, "Midnite Walk" features a total of 17 up-and-coming artists from the UK, US and Nigeria, and is the first instalment in a series of riddims to be released on Cross Seas. The London-based label, run by the former Monserrat resident Young Blee, aims to prove that quality dancehall is not the exclusive preserve of Jamaica. To celebrate the album's release, Young Blee has launched a nationwide search for the hottest dance talent out there. Dancers are invited to listen to the riddim on Blee's website (www.youngblee.com) and then submit video footage of themselves demonstrating their freshest midnite walk. The general public will vote for the top five entries, with the eventual winner being selected by Blee himself. And the prize? A generous £500 and the opportunity to appear in every future Cross Seas video. Aside from the main dancehall riddim, the album also features both a hip hop and soca version. This is almost certainly a first within dancehall culture and backs up Cross Seas' intention of reaching out to as many individuals as possible. "
